Biographical Note

Maria Burston Wheeler (née Walker) was born in Upper Bullingham Herefordshire, England, the sixth of nine children born to Thomas Walker and Ann Preece. Maria was converted to Mormonism in England while staying at her aunt's house. Church elders came to the home and Maria decided to convert and be baptized that day. Slowly her father and other members of her family also converted, including several of her uncles. By February of 1853 her father had decided to move the family to America and the Walkers left England from Liverpool to sail to the United States.

In late April they landed in New Orleans, bought oxen, and joined a covered wagon caravan headed west. Maria's grandfather Henry Walker Sr. bought the family a home in Salt Lake City, Utah where Maria married Joseph Wheeler. It is unknown what happened to Wheeler, but sometime after moving to Salt Lake City, Utah Maria met William Burston and married him in October of 1854. Burston already had a wife at the time. Later William was asked to move to Las Vegas, (New Mexico, at the time) to assist in the establishment of a new Mormon fort, and the two moved to what today is Las Vegas, Nevada. Maria Wheeler Burston had seven children with William Burston. In 1873 William died, and Maria had to find a way to support the family. She worked wage jobs as a housekeeper so she could send her children to school. In 1898 Maria married Thomas Wheeler. On January 12, 1933 Maria Burston Wheeler died.
