Biographical Note

Norma Jean Almodovar is a sex worker rights activist, author, and founder of the International Sex Worker Foundation for Art, Culture, and Education (ISWFACE). Almodovar was born Norma Jean Wright on May 27, 1951 in Binghamton, New York. Upon graduating from high school in 1969, Almodovar moved to New York City for a short time before relocating to Los Angeles, California in 1970. Norma Jean began working as a traffic enforcement officer for the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) in 1972. After sustaining multiple workplace injuries between 1974 and 1982, Almodovar left the LAPD and began a career as a call girl in Beverly Hills, California. In 1983, Almodovar was arrested on one count of pandering, for which she was convicted and served prison time. Her experiences as a traffic officer for the LAPD and as a sex worker later resulted in her book, Cop to Call Girl.

Norma Jean Almodovar has dedicated her life to advocating for sex worker rights. In the 1980s, she became involved with the Los Angeles chapter of Call Off Your Old Tired Ethics (COYOTE), an organization devoted to the decriminalization of sex work and removing the stigma surrounding the occupation. In 1997, Almodovar founded the International Sex Worker Foundation for Art, Culture, and Education (ISWFACE), a California-based nonprofit centered around artistic support, education about sex work, and community building.

In 2023, Norma Jean Almodovar retired to Las Vegas, Nevada with her late husband, Victor Savant, and resides there as of 2025.
